Globe Final Paper

“One day, you’ll realize that the world was showing you yourself the whole time.”

Below is a collection of channeled messages I’ve received during the course of this certification. There has been an exponential deepening of my life through this program, and one of the most exciting parts of this deepening is the connection I feel with source.

There seems to be a few overall themes that keep coming up: all is one, unconditional love is the way, and the time is now. I offer these messages as another path towards our collective dream.

“We can clear and re-organize the auric field through song. When we sing together with intention, it is all the more powerful. Never forget, my brothers and sisters, that we are one. Coming together and syncing our energy creates magical ripples of alignment, well-being, joy, and happiness.

There were always moments of singing together, for celebration, moments for those to share solo moments for the benefits of the group, and there were “task forces,” of which would go for special projects using the voice. This would be for spiritual enlightenment, communication, manifesting, healing, and much more. Highly respected priests and priestesses would specialize in this field. Sound’s power was well known throughout the land.

You now have the possibility of bringing this knowledge back. Wherever you go, you can bring this. Have fun! The important work for you is to bring joy and happiness, and in order to do that, you must be joyful and happy!

Go in love, Adonai. - St. Germain

Unconditional Love is already here. It is guiding you, showing you, holding you. It is ever-present. Some have lost or forgot this connection, but this is as simple as flipping on a switch.

We may have been hurt by people who’ve forgotten this connection to unconditional love, but it is here for you and them now.

There is a place for conditions of love, because there are conditions, or situations, or events, in your life. However, these conditional moments are aided by unconditional love. So how is it that you connect with this ultimate kind of love? You must find a way to sync up, find alignment, and recognize it within yourself more and more. An excellent way to do this is through forgiveness. Holding on to past “conditions” keep you “conditional.” The unconditional lies underneath (and, in actuality, within) the conditional.

Imagine, if you will, a light bulb that is connected to infinite energy, it’s light never goes out, has never gone out, and has never experienced darkness. Somehow, this light bulb is covered by a lightly coloured box. The light is still on, but from the outside of the box, it looks less bright, more dull. Then there’s another box put on top, this one is darker. And then another, and another, until you can barely see this light. This light, my dear beloved, is the light of unconditional love, of the soul, of your true nature. You see that the light hasn’t gone away, the purity forever remains, and all one must do is remove/release the boxes. We must let go. This process is easier than you think, especially now. Forgive yourself, release a box. Forgive others, release a box. Forgive the world, conditions, wrongs and rights, and watch as the boxes fall away. When all is left is your light, you will come to know unconditional love like never before.

Dear Beloved,

There are so many things I wish to say to you. You were wrong, you were right, you were guided, you were not. Everything relates, and yet, nothing does.

This may be confusing to you, but know we seek not to confuse you, but to open you to your true nature, your true power, the power that has always existed in you. Just as easily as you can link up and receive words, you can link up to the greater part of you, to source, to all.

Your mission is simple: love thy neighbor and love yourself. Find the oneness in all. In order to do so, one must find balance in giving and receiving. We see and understand the speed bumps along your path, but trust when we say, they are not real, they are as real as your dreams, and this life, this beautiful life in which you live. You, my dear beloved, are creating it and you can just as easily erase it.

However, we must also say, that these speed bumps have multiple benefits to you dear one. Speed bumps are created based on your present complex structure. This structure is your thoughts, emotions, beliefs, and energetic sphere of resonance in the present moment. What you need is always being brought to you based on this structure. It is this reason that creation is within your control. These speed bumps tell you where you are, and what you have the capacity to learn in this given time.

We are reaching out to you now because it is time for you to choose more deliberately. Contemplate these words, truly receive them dear one. Your experience is your proof, your life is your love. We are like you, searching and experiencing love. There are different levels of everything, so complex in its enormity, but all is love and all is one.

You may doubt what you receive from time to time as you grow, but you will see a balancing occur as you converge. As you rise, a melting, if you will, will happen. This is to happen to everyone.

Listen now, listen clearly, here we are, here we have always been. Guiding you toward the path forward. Continue on your journey, for all is well. Contemplate, love, discover, and continue to find your joy. She was right, your joy and light is the gift. Sacrifice is not needed, your joy, your light is needed. You are so loved, my dear one.

Your time has come dear reader.

Your time has come.

We are here to assist you. There is nothing to fear. Your eyes are opening to what you seek. We share in your joy of knowing that which is upon you. Love to all of you, always.

We are the ashkatar.

Abraham Hicks repeatedly says, "One who is connected to Source is more powerful than millions who are not."

Let us be the one among the millions. Let us remind ourselves that we are literally love and light. Let us remind ourselves that all is source. Let us remember who we really are, where we come from, and why we are here. Let us also remember that the path isn't a straight line, nor is it without "negative" emotion, but it is always perfect, and all is well.

“Life is constantly guiding us to ourselves. Let it.”
