

5-D Numerology

Rachael Cohen

This information was communicated by the whales in Baja Mexico in 2000 and it has been requested that they be credited when sharing. The more familiar 3-D numerology is based on the number 9 and uses the sum of the numbers found in ones birthday date including the full day, month, and year. The number used is always simplified to a single digit number (1-9), so when ending with a double digit, the two are added together(Ex: 29=11=2). The 5-D Numerology system is based around the number 13 but uses the numbers 1-12 as the foundation all contained within the number 13. Much like there are 12 notes on the piano, including all the black and white keys, 13 represents all that is, each frequency simultaneously, as a container for its parts. There are several ways to use the numbers depending on what you are trying to explore, I will introduce the primary form here in writing and show the others using examples towards the end. The basic approach is to write out the alphabet and assign the numbers 1-12 to each letter consecutively(See graph 1). Next write out the letters of each of your names and assign numbers to each letter. These numbers can be added together to get a number from 1-12. Here I will introduce the assigned number meanings in retrospect to the 3-D system.

1 new beginning becomes New Universe. This holds the vibration of activation and requires a sort of initiation energy. This number represents an origin and deals with being prepared or excited for a response or reaction. Themes associated with this number include but are not limited to; birth or rebirth, paradigm shifts, and starting something.

2 partnership becomes Grid Matrix Interface. This holds the vibration of attunement with our hearts. This number represents a process by which diffused systems come into alignment through a natural tendency, resulting and operating exactly together. Themes associated with this number include but are not limited to; time and space, the interconnectedness of all beings, and the collective consciousness.

3 creativity becomes Co-creator with Source. This holds the vibration of actualization. This number represents the intrinsic growth of what an organism is as it embraces truth and is empowered through a relationship to Source and with others. Themes associated with this number included but are not limited to; the here and now, spontaneity, acceptance of self and others, and interest in the resolution of problems.

4 foundation becomes Love. This holds the vibration of unconditional and healing love. This number represents the building blocks of all of existence as love creates all of life and weaves together the fabric of our universe. Themes associated with this number include but are not limited to ; life forms, energy, substance, and meaning.

5 change/chaos becomes Light. This holds the vibration of cosmic information communicated through a light body network. This number represents the movement of energy within our universe and the communication that occurs through its transfer. Themes associated with this number include but are not limited to; communication, movement, and information.

6 marriage or harmony becomes Unity Consciousness. This holds the vibration of realization of self hood exhibiting that we are all one. This number represents an expanded awareness of the nature of our existence where all things are derived from the same source thus are of equal value. Themes associated with this number include but are not limited to; unification, balance of Shiva and Shakti, and equanimity.

7 visualization remains as Visualization. This holds the vibration of directing energy through imagining or focusing. This number represents a transition into multidimensionality and acts as a bridge the experience of different dimensions simultaneously. Themes associated with this number include but are not limited to; intention, prayer, and attention.

8 manifestation becomes Materialization. This holds the vibration of shifting how we manifest visualization dealing directly with our intentions. This number relates to changing our relationship to energy and matter knowing there is a choice to recreate ourselves in each moment like a flame that appears continuous but is new in every moment. Themes associated with this number include but are not limited to; shapeshifting, the malleability of matter, and instant manifestation.

9 completion becomes High-Self. This holds the vibration of cristos consciousness. This number relates to transforming how we form ourselves by unifying our human and divine qualities to transform suffering. Themes associated with this number include but are not limited to; healing, self realization, awakening, and enlightenment.

10 Stewardship of Planet Earth. This holds the vibration of the whales and dolphins. This number relates to caretaking the planet as a direct extension of ourselves, seeing no separation between the earth and our bodies needing nurture and love. Themes associated with this number include but are not limited to; divine mother, universal love, and earth based spirituality.

11 Ascension. This holds the vibration of living from place of high self. This number relates to changing how we mutate or adapt. Themes associated with this number include but are not limited to; the shift, beyond life, death, and reincarnation, moving beyond rules of 3-D reality.

12 Ovum/Void. This holds the vibration of the nothingness that births somethingness. This number relates to the evolution of life as we know it coming from the unknown dark emptiness that is pregnant with all possibility. Themes associated with this number include but are not limited to; complete surrender, beyond all sense and form, and the great mystery.

13 is the master number and includes all the other number and relates to becoming god.

Heart meditation where heart is gateway to the void pregnant with all possibility. Close eyes and begin to imagine that you are breathing through the heart. As you continue inhaling and exhaling, gradually visualize the heart getting larger until you remain suspended within your heart while simultaneously breathing through it. This information was presented to me by an extraterrestrial shaman who channels to ET spirits. She lead me through these 12 vibratory planes as 12 journeys and used this heart meditation to help us enter the space.
